BRIEF HISTORY OF SNCC

When four black students from North Carolina Agricultural and Technical College requested service at a segregated Greensboro lunch counter on February 1, 1960, they unknowingly ushered in a decade of civil rights activism undertaken by blacks and sympathetic whites whose methods became more militant as their goals broadened. The action on the part of these four students provided the impetus for a series of "sit-ins" by students from black campuses across the South. It was in the context of the burgeoning sit-in movement that the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee (SNCC) was formed at a conference of student leaders that convened in Raleigh, North Carolina on April 15-17, 1960.

According to its constitution, SNCC was to function as "a channel of coordination and communication for the student [protest] movement." An excerpt from a statement of purpose adopted by the students at the Raleigh conference reflects the initial methods and goals of their action:

We affirm the philosophical or religious ideal of nonviolence as the foundation of our purpose, the presupposition of our faith, and the manner of our action. Nonviolence as it grows from Judaic-Christian traditions seeks a social order of justice permeated by love. Integration of human endeavor represents the crucial first step towards such a society.

SNCC's adherence to Gandhian principles of nonviolence was constantly scrutinized and modified to meet both the challenges to, and the shifting objectives of, the broader civil rights movement.

SNCC evolved through a number of phases in its brief history. During its formative period, SNCC directed much of its efforts toward organizing communities and coordinating the effort to break down the barriers created by segregation in the southern states. SNCC's primary function gradually shifted from coordination to agitation. The organization did not hesitate to move from the limited goal of desegregating public facilities to objectives more threatening to southern whites in power: the organization of local projects and the promotion of voter registration drives. In fact, SNCC was noteworthy among civil rights groups for its desire to allow autonomy to local leaders. SNCC moved into areas of the deep South considered too risky by other civil rights organizations like the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE) and the Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC). It is for this reason that historian Clayborne Carson saw SNCC as providing the "shock troops" for the civil rights movement in the early 1960s.

SNCC's efforts to achieve political equality for southern blacks culminated in 1964 with the Mississippi Summer Project. The project was sponsored by the Council of Federated Organizations, which consisted of SNCC, CORE, and SCLC. Literally hundreds of volunteers, many of them northern white students, streamed into Mississippi to coordinate and participate in voter registration projects and the formation of civilian education institutions like freedom schools and community centers. It was during the early days of these projects that three civil rights workers—Andrew Goodman, Michael Schwerner, and James Chaney—disappeared and were later found murdered, an event that brought the violence faced by SNCC and other civil rights organizations into the national limelight. The Mississippi Freedom Democratic Party was also founded in 1964, and its most significant contributions grew out of its challenges to the all-white Mississippi delegation at the 1964 Democratic National Convention and to the seating of Mississippi Congressmen in the United States House of Representatives in 1965. Although both these challenges failed, they brought further visibility to SNCC's efforts in the deep South.

In the mid-1960s, SNCC went through a transitional phase during which its leaders and workers entertained serious doubts about the direction of the movement they had in large measure inspired. They became uncertain about how to continue and advance the struggle for racial equality. Would southern blacks make further gains by integration into a society clearly dominated by whites; or would they be served better by separation from whites, the establishment of an alternative black power structure, and so a striking reaffirmation of their black heritage? How could the urge toward black separatism be reconciled with SNCC's early approach of interracial cooperation and nonviolent direct action?

The answers SNCC formulated to these questions largely determined the course the civil rights movement would take during the latter 1960s. As urban blacks faced increasing economic hardship and Lyndon B. Johnson's "Great Society" began to crumble under the force of opposition to the War in Vietnam, SNCC developed a more militant ideological stance. Stokely Carmichael was elected chairman of SNCC in 1966, and he and other SNCC members rigorously supported the movement for black power. However dissension, both within the organization and between SNCC and other civil rights groups, fragmented the civil rights movement and hindered the cause of black unity.

In 1968, the two most important positions within SNCC—those of chairman and executive secretary—were eliminated. The organization had lost the vital leadership of James Forman, who had resigned as executive secretary in 1966 to become head of SNCC's new International Affairs Commission in New York. The election of the militant H. Rap Brown as chairman had further divided SNCC. Beset by ineffective leadership, political divisiveness, and economic hardship, SNCC ceased functioning as an organization by 1970.

DESCRIPTION OF THE ARRANGEMENT OF THE COLLECTION

The papers of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee (SNCC) are a rich and varied source for the history of SNCC, the saga of the civil rights movement in the 1960s, and the relationships between SNCC and other organizations. The papers provide detailed documentation of the founding of SNCC, the internal workings of the organization, local conditions throughout the South, white resistance to civil rights workers, and SNCC's increasing awareness of international affairs. Most of the papers date from between 1960 and 1968, the period of SNCC's active involvement in the civil rights movement.

The papers are arranged by subgroup and series, in accordance with the offices and departments by which they were designated upon receipt by the Martin Luther King, Jr., Center for Nonviolent Social Change, Inc. The SNCC Papers are divided into three main subgroups:

SUBGROUP A. ATLANTA OFFICE, 1959-1972

The seventeen series of the Atlanta Office files comprise the largest subgroup in the papers, and are arranged by department or function of the organization.

SUBGROUP B. NEW YORK OFFICE, 1960-1969

The records of the New York Office are divided into two main series—one on fund raising and the other on the International Affairs Commission—and a short series of financial records.

SUBGROUP C. WASHINGTON OFFICE, 1960-1968

The records of the Washington Office are arranged in six series which reflect much about SNCC's involvement in politics at the federal level.

There is an additional small subgroup of Records of Undetermined Provenance, 1960-1968, followed by three appendices: the Mississippi Freedom Democratic Party Papers, 1961-1972; the Michael Kenney Papers, 1963-1969; and the William Porter Papers, 1960-1968. The files within each of the four subgroups and three appendices are arranged according to an alphabetical or chronological scheme, each described in the individual series descriptions.

For purposes of micropublication, each subject file was assigned an identification number—for example, A: 1:1—which appears on each frame of the microfilm and indicates that the material is from Subgroup A, the Atlanta Office files; Series I, Chairmen's Files; and is the first file in Series I. The files have been numbered consecutively within each series, and this arrangement holds true for each of the four subgroups. For the three appendices, the files were simply numbered consecutively. The identification numbers are identical to the numbering system used on the reel list of subject files and inclusive dates, which follows the description of each series. In addition, a frame counter was used to facilitate scholarly citation.

Insofar as was possible, the original order of the files was maintained. The researcher should note, however, that filing by SNCC staff members was often inconsistent. For instance, the correspondence of an individual might be found under the person's name or organization, or under the subject discussed in the letter. Further, the researcher should expect to find some duplication of items—mostly printed materials like press releases, pamphlets, and memoranda—between series, since the various SNCC offices and departments received much of the same circulated literature.

Finally, the researcher should be aware that the SNCC Papers are arranged chronologically according to the date of the covering letter. Usually the covering letter is the latest in a series of letters and enclosures, but that is not always the case. Hence many of the chronological files often do not appear to be in chronological order. The researcher, therefore, must be flexible in approaching the SNCC Papers, and must realize that the occasional apparent lack of order reflects a great deal about SNCC's operations as an organization.

SUBGROUP A. ATLANTA OFFICE, 1959-1972

The records of the Atlanta Office of SNCC include correspondence, minutes of meetings, staff memoranda, press releases, reports, newspaper clippings, and a variety of printed material pertaining to all the departments coordinated from the national office. These records are divided into seventeen series, each corresponding to a department or function of the organization. The following are the largest series: Series IV, the Executive Secretary Files, 1959-1972; Series VII, the files of the Communications Department, 1960-1968; Series VIII, the files of the Research Department, 1959-1969; Series IX, the files of the Northern Coordination Department, 1959-1968; and Series XV, the State Project Files, 1960-1968.

The researcher should note that Series XVI, records relating to the Mississippi Freedom Democratic Party (MFDP), 1960-1967, overlaps with Appendix A, the Mississippi Freedom Democratic Party Papers, 1961-1972. While the files on the MFDP in Subgroup A include simply those records on the party's activities that were kept in the Atlanta Office, the MFDP Papers go into much greater detail about the party's formation, organization, and objectives. Hence the researcher who is investigating the MFDP and other political activities of SNCC should consult both Series XVI of Subgroup A and Appendix A. The researcher should also note that there inevitably occurs a certain amount of duplication between the two groups of records.

Within the Atlanta Office files is a wealth of information on SNCC activities: the protests in Albany, Georgia in 1961 and 1962; the 1963 March on Washington; the Mississippi Summer Project of 1964; and the 1965 voter education project in Selma, Alabama. More generally, the Atlanta Office files document SNCC's voter registration and citizen education activities throughout the southern states; activities of the chairmen and executive secretaries; internal communications among SNCC members; and SNCC's relationships with other organizations.

The files of the Atlanta Office are not considered complete since there are occasional gaps in several series. In addition, many of the financial and personnel records in the files for the Bookkeeping Department were not microfilmed.

SERIES I. CHAIRMEN'S FILES, 1960-1969

The chairman of SNCC was elected annually by the Coordinating Committee. The chairman represented SNCC to the public and frequently presented testimony at congressional and other hearings. The SNCC constitution stated no specific duties for the chairman, other than that he "shall devote full time to the work of SNCC" and "shall serve both as chairman of the Coordinating Committee and the Executive Committee." From 1960 until 1968, when the position was eliminated, five men held the post of chairman: Marion Barry, from April until October 1960; Charles McDew, from October 1960 until May 1963; John Lewis, from May 1963 until May 1966; Stokely Carmichael, from May 1966 until May 1967; and H. Rap Brown, from May 1967 until June 1968.

The Chairmen's Files deal with such topics as the origins of SNCC, the sit-ins and freedom rides, fund raising, the television appearances of Stokely Carmichael, and the imprisonment of H. Rap Brown. There is a quantity of material in the files for Marion Barry, John Lewis, and Stokely Carmichael; a lesser amount of material for Charles McDew; and very little material for H. Rap Brown.

Marion Barry was one of a number of students from Fisk University in Nashville who provided several of the group's most prominent leaders. The files of Barry, who was elected as SNCC's first chairman at the Raleigh conference in April 1960, include primarily reports and materials relating to several of SNCC's early organizational conferences in 1960 (also see Series V),- and correspondence reflecting SNCC's reaction to the political environment in 1960.

The files of Charles McDew, a student at South Carolina State College who was elected chairman of SNCC at an October 1960 conference in Atlanta, consist primarily of correspondence. John Lewis, McDew's successor, had attended American Baptist Theological Seminary in Nashville and had been involved in SNCC's organization at the Raleigh conference. Lewis served as chairman during SNCC's most active years, and his files consist of correspondence, memoranda, and reports relating to SNCC activities.

In 1966, SNCC underwent a fundamental reorganization when Stokely Carmichael and Ruby Doris Smith Robinson were elected as chairman and executive secretary, respectively. Carmichael, who had become a full-time SNCC worker after graduating from Howard University in 1964, was a veteran of the militant Lowndes County, Alabama voter registration movement. He actively sought Lewis's position, and his election as chairman signified SNCC's ideological shift to black separatism. This shift is reflected in Carmichael's files, which include primarily correspondence, but also memoranda, reports, newspaper clippings, and leaflets. Carmichael was replaced as chairman in 1967 by H. Rap Brown, whose files consist mainly of correspondence.

The files for Series I are arranged into five separate subseries by the chairmen's names, in the order of their dates of service. The files within each subseries are arranged in alphabetical order by subject or type of material, with items within each file arranged chronologically by year, month, and day.

This small series of records consists primarily of minutes of staff meetings, as well as position papers and proposals prepared by staff members for discussion at the meetings. Although they cover several SNCC staff meetings, these records are not comprehensive. Topics taken up at the staff meetings included finances, program priorities, the structure of SNCC, personnel problems, and white involvement in the organization and the civil rights movement.

Reel 4 2. Miscellaneous, n.d.

SERIES IV. EXECUTIVE SECRETARY FILES, 1959-1972

The Executive Secretary, appointed by the Executive Board, was the chief executive officer of SNCC. Jane Stenibridge and Edward King, two of the original founders of SNCC, provided leadership for the organization until the position of executive secretary was created formally in 1961. The Stenbridge and King files, although small in size, contain significant correspondence and other materials pertaining to the early months of SNCC, and especially to its relationships with other organizations during its formative stages.

James Forman assumed the position of executive secretary of SNCC in 1961 and became one of SNCC's most effective and influential leaders. A Chicago school teacher who became involved in civil rights activities in the late 1950s, Forman provided the administrative and organizational skills that SNCC lacked. He offered strong leadership for the organization until the time of his resignation in May 1966, when Ruby Doris Smith Robinson was elected as the new executive secretary. Robinson served for about one year, after which Stanley Wise held the post until it was abolished in 1968.

The files of James Forman comprise the bulk of the Executive Secretary Files. Since the executive secretary was the single person most responsible for the daily operations of SNCC, Forman's files reflect virtually every aspect of the organization and its development. The files of Ruby Doris Smith Robinson were not found among the SNCC records, and there is very little material on the tenure of Stanley Wise.

These files consist primarily of correspondence, but there are also staff and personnel reports, memoranda, printed materials, financial records, and news clippings. The files of each executive secretary are arranged alphabetically, with items within each file arranged chronologically by year, month, and day.

The researcher should note that there is a certain amount of inconsistency in the Executive Secretary Files. For example, SNCC field reports might be filed under: (1) name of the field worker; (2) location, followed by state; (3) state, followed by location; or (4) state general file. The researcher is advised to study the file headings very carefully to locate all files relating to an individual and/or an organization. For further field reports, see especially A:VII:15-29, and selected files in A:XV.

SNCC was founded at a conference of student leaders at Shaw University in Raleigh, North Carolina on April 15-17, 1960. Four conferences were held through 1960 as the Coordinating Committee took shape. Between 1961 and 1964 at least two conferences were held annually. The primary purpose of the meetings was to bring together student civil rights leaders from across the South in order to discuss the progress they made and the challenges they faced.

The files of the SNCC Conferences are in chronological order by the date of the conference, with items in each file arranged chronologically. The following conferences are represented in this series:

April 15-17, 1960	Raleigh
May 13-14, 1960	Atlanta
June 10, 1960	Atlanta
October 14-16, 1960	Atlanta
February 3-5, 1961	Atlanta
April 21-23, 1961	Charlotte
August 11-13, 1961	Monteagle, Tennessee
April 27-29, 1962	Atlanta
November 23, 1962	Nashville
April 12-14, 1963	Atlanta
November 1963 March 27-29, 1964	unknown Atlanta
November 6-12, 1964	Waveland, Mississippi

The various conference files are uneven with regard to contents. Generally the types of materials found include correspondence, minutes of the meetings, various departmental reports, and lists of participants. Researchers can check files A:I:1-10 and A:I:30 for additional conference files.

In this series, submitted applications to attend the April 1963 Atlanta conference were not filmed.

SERIES VI. BOOKKEEPING DEPARTMENT, 1960-1967

The Bookkeeping Department had two basic responsibilities. It kept track of much of SNCC's financial operations, and it was responsible for keeping personnel records for the organization. The files of the Bookkeeping Department, especially the financial records, are not complete. The Bookkeeping Department's financial records are arranged alphabetically by type of record, with materials in each file arranged chronologically by year, month, and day. The personnel files are arranged alphabetically by subject or type of material, with items in each file in chronological order.

Several portions of these files were not microfilmed. Bills, expense accounts, receipts, and several other types of in-house financial records were omitted. Many of the personnel files were filmed, although applications for the following were omitted: (1) Freedom Vote volunteers; (2) general employment; (3) Freedom Force, 1965; (4) Mississippi Project, 1965; (5) volunteer service; and (6) Washington Lobby, 1965 (all of which comprise roughly two Hollinger boxes of files).

Lists of SNCC and COFO staff and field workers can be found in files A:VI:12, A:VI:21, and A:VI:27. These lists are invaluable in identifying SNCC and COFO workers, particularly those taking part in the Mississippi Summer Project of 1964.

For further financial records and information on SNCC's constant efforts to raise funds, see especially A:IX:33-52, B:I, Brill, C:I:89-109, and C:VI.

SERIES VII. COMMUNICATIONS DEPARTMENT, 1960-1968

The Communications Department was responsible for public relations and internal communications for the entire organization. Much of the correspondence pertaining to public relations is that of Julian Bond, who became SNCC's first communications director at the request of James Forman in early 1962. The press releases in the public relations files give a good overview of SNCC's activities from 1962-1965, but are weak for the earlier and later years of the 1960s. Also included in the public relations files are lists of press contacts, and miscellaneous correspondence and near-print material relating to the Communications Department.

Re

The Communications Department also acted as coordinator of intra-staff communications. Two different newsletters are located in the internal communication files. The Staff Newsletter (A:VII:6), which is incomplete, covers the period from November 1962 to October 1965. Both the New York and Atlanta offices published a newsletter entitled News of the Field (A:VII:15-16) which provided abstracts from field reports. It could not be determined whether the field reports from the twelve states in the internal communication files were used in the preparation of News of the Field. The field reports in these files should be used in conjunction with those found in A: IV and A:XV.

The internal communication files also contain two distinct sets of WATS line Reports. The first and primary set, found in A:VII:7, is arranged chronologically by year, month, and day. This set includes daily typed reports on the telephone calls received on the various SNCC WATS lines, such as those throughout Mississippi and in Atlanta. The second set of WATS Reports, found in files A:VII:8-14, covers seven Mississippi counties. The reports were clipped out and organized by county. Supporting materials such as voter registration lists, affidavits, reports, and some correspondence were added to these WATS Reports.

The Research Department was the information-gathering unit of SNCC. Although only a portion of the department's files have survived, they nevertheless provide an accurate indication of how the department functioned and the kinds of information it collected.

The Research Department files are divided into four parts. The Africa Files, A:VIII:1-19, contain primarily printed research matter on individual countries, liberation organizations, and Afro-American groups. There is little correspondence or SNCC-generated material in these files.

The files relating to the Southern States, A:VIII:20-142, consist mostly of information on Alabama, Arkansas, Georgia, and Mississippi. These files contain materials gathered by the Research Department, as well as reports prepared by the department either on states or on specific counties and localities within states. The files are arranged alphabetically by state, and then usually by county or city name. These informative files include, in addition to research materials and reports, correspondence, memoranda, news clippings, and legal documents.

The General Files, A:VIII:143-310, are the largest group of materials in the files of the Research Department. Included here is information on individuals, and topics and organizations of interest to SNCC. Consisting of printed materials, correspondence, memoranda and reports, speeches and essays, and news clippings, these files touch upon such subjects as the Black Panthers, civil rights, farm workers, freedom schools, the Ku Klux Klan, segregation, and Vietnam.

The files on Court Cases, A:VIII:311-346, consist of legal briefs, petitions, affidavits, and decisions for both state and federal courts, most of which directly or indirectly relate to SNCC activities. Each case is listed by title, and dates are supplied when given on the legal document. Most of these files are not complete since only one or two documents exist for each case. For other legal files relating to SNCC, the researcher should consult Appendix A, the Mississippi Freedom Democratic Party Papers, especially the county reports on Mississippi (file numbers 131-285) and court cases (file numbers 286-291).

All materials in each part of the Research Department files are in alphabetical order, with items within specific files arranged chronologically by year, month, and day.

The Northern Coordination Department was responsible for coordinating the activities of support groups in the northern states, the SNCC regional offices, and the volunteer Friends of SNCC groups. Northern Coordination Department personnel also aided in organizing fund-raising projects and in answering correspondence. Ruby Doris Smith Robinson was active in coordinating the northern student movement prior to 1963, when the Northern Coordination Department was formally created and placed under the direction of Sandra Cason (Casey) Hayden, wife of anti-war activist Tom Hayden.

The extensive files of the Northern Coordination Department are divided into seven parts. The Administrative Files, A:IX:1-18, consist of correspondence, memoranda, mailing lists, news clippings, and printed materials relating to the activities of the department. Files A:IX:3 and A:IX:12 reflect something of SNCC's efforts to establish bail funds whose purpose was to aid civil rights workers jailed in the South. These files are arranged by topic or type of material, with items in each file in chronological order by year, month, and day. File A:IX:19, the general correspondence file of the Northern Coordination Department, is in chronological order.

Re

Correspondence with other organizations can be found in A:IX:20-32, and is arranged alphabetically by type or name of organization. The researcher can determine much about SNCC's interactions with other organizations by using these files in conjunction with many of Forman's files in A:IV, selected general files in A:VIII, and specific files in A:XVII and C:III.

Re

The fourth part of the Northern Coordination Department files, A:IX:33-52, contain correspondence, printed materials, and mailing lists relating to SNCC's fund-raising efforts (see also B:I, C:I:89-109, and C:VI:3). These fund-raising files are arranged alphabetically by type of material or type of fund-raising activity, and chronologically within each file.

Re

The fifth set of files, A:IX:53-111, consists primarily of correspondence with several of the Friends of SNCC groups which were organized around the country (see also B:I:46-48 and C:I:78-88). These files, which also include some international Friends of SNCC groups, are in alphabetical order by state, then county or city, with items within each file arranged chronologically.

The sixth group of files, A:IX:112-157, came from the various offices represented by the Northern Coordination Department, and are arranged by name of office, then by type of material or subject. The correspondence, memoranda, newsletters, news clippings, and printed materials found in these files are invaluable for understanding the diversity of SNCC and the operations of the northern offices, which included an office in the Bay Area of California.

The final part of the Northern Coordination Department files, A:IX: 158-163, is rather small, and contains correspondence, mailings, and newsletters relating to SNCC's coordination of allied groups on college campuses.

SNCC's educational program began in 1960 as the organization became concerned about the education of black college students who were expelled or suspended because of their involvement in civil rights activities. The Education Department was created in 1964 in an effort to assist SNCC staff members in getting scholarships so they could return to college after working for the organization in the South. Carole Merritt directed the department and was quite successful in raising scholarship funds for civil rights workers. She also organized a Work Study Institute for SNCC staff held in November 1964.

The Education Department files contain correspondence, memoranda, reports, and program proposals relating to SNCC's attempts to establish a strong educational program among and beyond its membership. Projects documented in this series include SNCC's Scholarship Program, the Selma Literacy Project (see also A:XV: 17) , the Work Study Institute, and the freedom schools. The series is in alphabetical order by program or type of material, with items in each file arranged chronologically by year, month, and day.

For further information on SNCC's educational programs during the Mississippi Summer Project of 1964, the researcher should also consult A:XV:110-112, 164, and 165, and the freedom school files, numbers 321-373, in Appendix A, the Mississippi Freedom Democratic Party Papers, 1961-1972.

SERIES XI. PHOTO DEPARTMENT, 1963-1967

SNCC always made a concerted effort to document and preserve the history of the civil rights movement. To this end, the organization established a Photo Department which at its peak utilized four full-time photographers. Photographs taken also aided in SNCC's publicity and fund-raising campaigns.

The correspondence, reports, and printed materials of the Photo Department files reveal much about some of SNCC's special programs, including a traveling photo show organized in 1964 (see also A:XIV.-6 and B:I:162), and a long-running campaign to support films about the movement. Files A:XI:1 and 2 document internal dissension that flared up within the department. The Photo Department files are arranged alphabetically by program or type of material, with items within each file in chronological order by year, month, and day.

Re

The SNCC Papers at the King Center contain over 1300 photographs, the majority being 8x10 35mm positive proofs. A very small sample of these photographs, found in A:XI:20, was included in the microfilm edition.

SERIES XII. PRINTING DEPARTMENT, 1963-1965

This series of three small files consists of correspondence, equipment inventories, and samples of work done by SNCC's Printing Department, which was responsible for producing printed materials for public distribution.

SERIES XIII. SOJOURNER MOTOR FLEET, 1963-1965

The Sojourner Motor Fleet served the transportation needs of SNCC. It owned the cars and light trucks used by the field staff. Correspondence, memoranda, and miscellaneous records indicate the difficulties involved in providing transportation for a direct-action organization in the South. There are also a few documents concerning attempts by support groups to raise money to buy cars for SNCC.

SERIES XIV. SPECIAL EVENTS DEPARTMENT, 1964-1968

»nce,

raise

The Special Events Department, previously known as the Program Department, had no clearly-stated responsibilities. Courtland Cox—who became one of the members of the Central Committee upon SNCC's reorganization in 1966—was the first Director of the department. The second Director, Cleveland Sellers, became Program Secretary in 1964, after serving as a project director during the Mississippi Summer Project. Sellers was one of SNCC's most active leaders, and while Director of the Special Events Department he acted more as an executive secretary to Stokely Carmichael during his tenure as chairman of the organization.

The Special Events Department files include correspondence, memoranda, and reports relating to special events such as a Canadian tour in 1966, and the photo show documented in the Photo Department files. Most of the remainder of the series is correspondence concerning speaking engagements of Carmichael in 1966 and early 1967. The series is in alphabetical order by program or type of material, with items in each file arranged chronologically by year, month, and day.

Not microfilmed were a large number of applications of persons from the Chicago area to ride to Washington on a special train, in order to participate in the 1963 March on Washington.

SERIES XV. STATE PROJECT FILES, 1960-1968

Re>

SNCC conducted projects in each of the southern states. These activities are reflected in the correspondence, reports, memoranda, and news clippings found in the valuable State Project Files. In this series, there are files on each of the southern states, with an especially large amount of material on Mississippi. (There is also one file, A:XV:234, on Ohio.) The State Project Files are in alphabetical order by state, and then usually by locale or program, with materials within each file arranged chronologically by year, month, and day.

Major project areas covered in these files are Lowndes County, Alabama; Selma, Alabama; and the State of Mississippi. Especially well-documented is the 1964 Mississippi Summer Project (see also ArXVI and Appendix A) which, for the first time, involved numbers of white volunteers from the northern states. It was during this project, in June 1964, that Michael Schwerner, Andrew Goodman, and James Chaney were murdered. Other important activities documented in this series include very early SNCC work in southwest Georgia—especially in Albany and Americus—and the 1966 disturbance in Atlanta.

There are also several field reports in this series. The researcher can locate these by looking under the state, then the county or city. More complete sets of field reports are located in A:IV and A:VII .-15-29. Similar files for selected southern states can be found in A:VIII:20-142.

When using the State Project Files, the researcher should carefully study the subject headings, since there is a certain amount of overlap between the files on Mississippi and those on the Mississippi Summer Project. For information on Mississippi freedom schools, for example, the researcher should consult both the files under "Mississippi, Freedom Schools" and those under "Mississippi, Mississippi Summer Project, Freedom Schools."

The Mississippi Freedom Democratic Party (MFDP) grew out of the Council of Federated Organizations (COFO), which had been created in 1964 to run the massive Mississippi Summer Project. The MFDP was a forerunner of all later black political parties. The major campaigns that the MFDP undertook included the challenge to the Mississippi delegation to the 1964 Democratic National Convention, the challenge to Mississippi's congressional delegation elected in November 1964, and the protest of the nomination by President Johnson of James P. Coleman to a seat on the Fifth Federal Circuit Court. The convention and congressional challenges were made on the grounds that blacks had been systematically excluded from the electoral process in Mississippi. The MFDP objected to the Coleman nomination because of his prior record as a staunch segregationist.

The Atlanta files for the MFDP are divided into five parts. The General Files, A:XVI:1-27, consist of correspondence, memoranda, and reports dealing with the activities and organization of the MFDP. These files are arranged alphabetically by type of material, organization, program, or individual, with items within each file in chronological order by year, month, and day.

The Records of the Convention Challenge, A:XVI:28-38, contain reports, correspondence, news clippings, and publicity materials on the convention challenge. The small third part, A:XVI:39-43, includes campaign materials, memoranda, and press releases relating to the Freedom Vote of 1964. The next set of files, A:XVI:44-53, contains reports, correspondence, news clippings, and other materials on the 1965 challenge to Mississippi's congressional delegation. The final set of files, A:XVI:54-61, consist of correspondence, news clippings, and testimony before the House Committee investigating the Coleman nomination. The latter four sets of files are each arranged alphabetically by type of material, with items in each file in chronological order.

For more detailed information on the Mississippi Freedom Democratic Party, the researcher should consult Appendix A, the Mississippi Freedom Democratic Party Papers, 1961-1972.

SERIES XVII. OTHER ORGANIZATIONS, 1959-1969

During the course of its existence SNCC upheld its contacts with a wide array of civil rights and direct-action organizations. Much of what transpired in those relationships is preserved in this series, which consists mostly of correspondence, although there are also reports and printed materials. Among the more important groups represented in this series are Americans for Democratic Action, Congress of Racial Equality, Council of Federated Organizations, Medical Committee for Human Rights, National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, National Conference for New Politics, National Council of Churches, National Student Christian Federation, Southern Christian Leadership Conference, Southern Regional Council, Students for a Democratic Society, and United States National Student Association. The files are arranged alphabetically by the name of the organization, with materials within each file arranged chronologically by year, month, and day.

For further information on SNCC's interaction with other organizations, the researcher should also consult Forman's files in A:IV, selected General Files in A:VIII, A:IX:20-32, and C:III.

SUBGROUP B. NEW YORK OFFICE, 1960-1969

The records of the New York Office of SNCC include correspondence, staff memoranda, minutes of meetings, reports, printed materials, and financial records. The office served two primary functions, first as SNCC's main fund-raising office, under the direction of Elizabeth Sutherland, and later as the headquarters of the International Affairs Commission, under the direction of James Forman. Accordingly, these records are divided into three series, one on fund raising, a second on the International Affairs Commission, and a third consisting of financial records.

The files on fund raising reflect SNCC's main sources of funds and the methods employed to raise them. These included dinner and house parties, receptions hosted by celebrities, concerts, and direct-mail solicitation. At the peak of SNCC's activities, between roughly 1963 and 1965, many celebrities lent their names to SNCC's cause. In addition to the well-known people who assisted with fund raising, several doctors, lawyers, and other professionals contributed vast sums of money and helped raise even more.

In the spring of 1967 James Forman moved to New York in order to develop SNCC's international program, and the New York Office became headquarters of the International Affairs Commission. SNCC, now designating itself as a broad human rights organization, became increasingly concerned with the problems faced by third world nations, especially those in Africa and Latin America. SNCC also became a major voice in the domestic opposition to American involvement in the War in Vietnam. The highlight of the brief life of the International Affairs Commission was Forman's participation in the United Nations-sponsored International Seminar on Apartheid, held in Zambia in 1967.

The one file of financial records includes financial materials pertaining to SNCC's income and expenses.

From its inception in 1963 through mid-1967 the New York Office of SNCC acted as coordinator of all fund-raising activities for the organization. The first director of the office was Julie Prettyman, who was followed by Elizabeth Sutherland.

The records on fund raising are divided into three distinct sets of files. First is a chronological file of correspondence, B:I:1, which reflect many of the fund-raising contacts and activities of the New York Office. The office's Administrative Files, B:I:2-132, contain correspondence, memoranda, reports, news clippings, articles, and printed materials distributed by SNCC. These files are in alphabetical order by organization, individual, type of fund-raising activity, or type of material, with items within each file arranged chronologically by year, month, and day.

The Fund Raising Activities files, B:I:133-171, go into far greater detail about SNCC's attempts to raise money. Files B:I:133-170, a set of files on programs, document a variety of SNCC fund-raising activities such as dinners, poster and record sales, and benefit concerts by celebrities and by the SNCC-sponsored Freedom Singers. These files are in alphabetical order according to type of program, and are arranged chronologically therein. Closing out the Fund Raising Activities files is a complete set of correspondence, B:I:171, that fully documents all contributions handled by the New York Office of SNCC between 1964 and mid-1967.

Any researcher investigating SNCC's fund-raising activities should look at these files in conjunction with A:IX:33-52, C:I:89-109, and C:VI:3.

SERIES II. INTERNATIONAL AFFAIRS COMMISSION, 1964-1969

The International Affairs Commission was organized by James Forman following his 1966 resignation as executive secretary. He brought the department to SNCC's New York Office in 1967. The International Affairs Commission, formed after the adoption of SNCC's declaration as a human rights organization, exhibited involvement in the liberation activities of many third world nations. Most of the Commission's interests were directed toward African affairs, and in 1967 Forman attended the United Nations International Seminar on Apartheid held in Zambia. Other activities of note include work in opposition to the War in Vietnam, cooperation with several Latin American nations, and the dispute over SNCC's position on Palestinian liberation adopted at the time of the 1967 Arab-Israeli War.

The series includes correspondence, reports, press releases, and scattered news clippings, which are arranged alphabetically by subject, individual, organization, or type of material, with items in each file in chronological order by year, month, and day.

Approximately one Hollinger box of printed War Crimes Tribunal Proceedings were not microfilmed.

SERIES III. FINANCIAL RECORDS, 1960-1967

This small series includes annual and monthly reports that reflect SNCC's financial situation. There are also reports on income and expenses of various SNCC offices and Friends of SNCC groups across the country. The vast majority of the records in these files are bills and receipts, and were not microfilmed.

SUBGROUP C. WASHINGTON OFFICE, 1960-1968

The Washington Office of SNCC was opened in 1963 with Mike Thelwell in charge of its operations. Publicity, fund raising, and communications with the federal government were to be the major responsibilities of the office. The records are divided into six series: Administrative Files, 1960-1968; Subject Files, 1963-1968; files on Other Organizations, 1960-1968; files on United States Government departments and agencies, 1960-1968; files on the Free D.C. Movement, 1961-1968; and Financial Records, 1964-1967.

Included in the Washington Office files are correspondence, news clippings, press releases and public statements, staff memoranda, WATS line reports, and printed materials relating to all phases of the office's work.

A primary function of the Washington Office was to write to members of Congress and officials in the Justice Department on civil rights matters and to relay pertinent information to SNCC headquarters in Atlanta. The office was in close touch with the efforts of the Mississippi Freedom Democratic Party in 1964 and 1965.

In 1966, under the direction of former SNCC chairman Marion Barry, the Washington Office spearheaded the Free D.C. Movement, a grass-roots campaign to win home rule for the District of Columbia. The aid of local merchants was enlisted, and mass organizing tactics were employed during this campaign. After 1966, however, the Washington Office lost much of its vigor.

SERIES I. ADMINISTRATIVE FILES, 1960-1968

The correspondence, news clippings, press releases, staff memoranda, WATS line Reports, and printed materials in this series relate to the general operation of the Washington Office of SNCC. Pertinent topics found in the series are the Free D.C. Movement (see C:V), congressional liaison, and the MFDP (see A:XVI and Appendix A). Files C:1:78-88 document the Washington Office's association with various Friends of SNCC groups (see also A:IX:53-111 and B:I). Files C:I:89-109 pertain to the office's fund-raising activities (see also A:IX:33-52, B:I, and C:VI:3).

The Administrative Files are arranged alphabetically by individual, subject, or type of material, with items within each file arranged in chronological order by year, month, and day.

SERIES II. SUBJECT FILES, 1963-1968

The Subject Files of the Washington Office contain mostly printed materials, although there is a small amount of correspondence, memoranda, and news clippings. Among the more important subjects included in these files are Africa, the James P. Coleman nomination to the Fifth Federal Circuit Court, the Civil Rights Act of 1964, housing, police brutality, school desegregation, the Vietnam War, and voting rights. The Washington Office also collected statistics on many southern states, which are found in these files. Some of the printed government documents found in this series were not microfilmed.

The series is in alphabetical order by subject, individual, or type of material, with items within each file arranged chronologically by year, month, and day.

SERIES III. OTHER ORGANIZATIONS, 1960-1968

The organizations with which the Washington Office of SNCC maintained contact can be found in the files relating to Other Organizations. This series consists of reports, printed materials, and some correspondence pertaining to SNCC's relationships with organizations such as the Congress of Racial Equality, the Council of Federated Organizations, the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, the Mississippi Freedom Democratic Party, the National Council of Churches, and Students for a Democratic Society. The series is arranged alphabetically by name of organization, with materials in each file in chronological order by year, month, and day.

Researchers investigating SNCC's interactions with other civil rights and direct action organizations should look at these files in conjunction with several of Forman's files in A:IV, selected files in A:VIII, A:IX:20-32, and A:XVII.

SERIES V. FREE D.C. MOVEMENT, 1961-1968

This series contains correspondence, press releases, leaflets, petitions, and news clippings relating to the Free D.C. Movement. Led by former SNCC chairman Marion Barry, the Free D.C. Movement was a concentrated effort to win home rule for the city of Washington, D.C. The movement's activities were geared toward gaining support for home rule from Washington's citizens and its merchant community. The files on the Free D.C. Movement are arranged alphabetically by subject or type of material, with items within each file arranged chronologically by year, month, and day.

SERIES VI. FINANCIAL RECORDS, 1964-1967

This small series contains primarily financial statements and reports pertaining to the financial affairs of the Washington Office of SNCC. The file on fund raising can be used in conjunction with A:IX:33-52, B:I, and C:I:89-109. Several routine bills and receipts found in these files were not microfilmed.

SUBGROUP D. RECORDS OF UNDETERMINED PROVENANCE, 1960-1968

The items in this final subgroup are those for which no appropriate place could be found in any of the other three subgroups. Included are a wide variety of materials, including correspondence, memoranda, reports, leaflets, newsletters, pamphlets, proposals, notes, and unidentifiable fragments of documents. Because of the varied nature of these items, which have no clear relationship to one another, no formal description would be apt. The items are arranged alphabetically by type of material, with items within each category arranged chronologically by year, month, and day.

APPENDIX A. MISSISSIPPI FREEDOM DEMOCRATIC PARTY PAPERS, 1961-1972

Appendix A to the SNCC Papers, the Mississippi Freedom Democratic Party (MFDP) Papers, 1961-1972, consists of correspondence, affidavits and depositions, reports and memoranda, news clippings, leaflets, and other printed materials pertaining to the civil rights movement in Mississippi throughout the 1960s. The MFDP Papers thoroughly document the organization of blacks at the local level, day-to-day incidents of violence, court cases relating to voter registration, and materials on the formation and activities of the MFDP.

The civil rights movement in Mississippi originated in 1961 in McComb, Mississippi, when Robert P. Moses entered the state under the auspices of SNCC in order to conduct a voter registration campaign. Although Moses often encountered violent resistance from local authorities in McComb, he began to apply the principles of nonviolent direct action he learned while attending Hamilton College in New York.

Between 1961 and 1964, the civil rights movement became entrenched throughout Mississippi, as an increasing number of students assisted in the registration of black voters. The movement for black political equality was conducted in the face of white resistance that took the form of economic reprisals and, more often, violence.

The height of the civil rights movement in Mississippi came during the COFO-sponsored Mississippi Summer Project of 1964, whose emphasis was on voter registration and the establishment of freedom schools and community centers. One of the more important results of the Mississippi Summer Project, however, was the organization of the MFDP. This party, which offered blacks in Mississippi the opportunity to participate openly in state politics, was formally organized at a convention held in Jackson in April 1964. The two most important contributions of the party, both well-documented in this appendix, were its challenge to the Mississippi delegation to the 1964 Democratic National Convention, and its challenge to the seating of Mississippi congressmen in the United States House of Representatives in 1965.

The MFDP Papers are arranged alphabetically by subject, type of material, individual, or organization, with items within each file arranged chronologically by year, month, and day. There are a few large subject headings peculiar to the MFDP Papers:

"Contested Elections" includes affidavits, depositions, correspondence, and memoranda relating to the congressional challenge of 1965.

The "County Reports" files consist of affidavits on voter registration and police brutality, correspondence, minutes of local MFDP meetings, printed materials, and mailing lists. These files reveal much about the organization of the MFDP at the local and county level, and are arranged alphabetically by the name of the specific Mississippi county, from Adams to Yazoo.

Files on the "Freedom Schools" contain curriculum materials, local reports, memoranda, and correspondence relating to the operation of the freedom schools in Mississippi.

The researcher should also note that materials in the MFDP Papers can be found under a variety of subject headings like "COFO," "MFDP," "Mississippi Summer Project," and "SNCC." The researcher is therefore advised to study the file headings carefully, and to consult all files that appear pertinent to a specific topic of research, since there was considerable inconsistency in filing by MFDP staff members. So, for example, a researcher investigating the process of voter registration in Mississippi might consult a number of files, including those "County Report" files labeled "Voter Registration"; "Freedom Registration"; "Freedom Vote"; "MFDP, Voter Registration"; "Mississippi, Voter Registration"; and "Voter Registration." As a result of this inconsistency, the researcher should expect to find some overlap of materials between subject headings within the MFDP Papers, and between the MFDP Papers and A:XVI of the SNCC Papers.

Finally, there are 29 Hollinger boxes of completed application forms for the Mississippi Summer Project of 1964 which, though not microfilmed, are available to the researcher at the Martin Luther King, Jr. Center for Nonviolent Social Change, Inc. in Atlanta.

APPENDIX B. MICHAEL KENNEY PAPERS, 1963-1969

Michael Kenney was a SNCC field worker in Mississippi who was particularly active in the Mississippi Summer Project of 1964. Appendix B, the Michael Kenney Papers, reflects one individual's perspective on the difficulties and frustrations encountered by white students who volunteered to work in Mississippi. In addition to correspondence, the papers include reports, materials on Holmes County, Winston County field reports, writings, and printed materials relating to the organization of blacks at the local level in Mississippi. The materials in this appendix are in alphabetical order according to individual, subject, or type of material, with items in each file arranged chronologically by year, month, and day.

APPENDIX C. WILLIAM PORTER PAPERS, 1960-1968

Appendix C offers another individual view of SNCC activities. William Porter described SNCC as "a human rights organization designed to help people improve their living conditions and to develop and protect their community." Porter helped the organization to aspire to this goal by holding various positions within SNCC between 1962 and 1967: chief file clerk; project director in Gadsden and Birmingham, Alabama; southern fundraiser; conference coordinator; assistant director of SNCC's research library; and Atlanta Office manager. The variety of Porter's experiences are reflected in his papers, which consist of reports, minutes of SNCC meetings, correspondence, news clippings, and printed materials, arranged alphabetically by type of material, with items within each file in chronological order by year, month, and day.

APPENDIX D. THE STUDENT VOICE, 1960-1965

Appendix D of the SNCC Papers contains a run of SNCC's newsletter, The Student Voice, from the publication of the first number in June 1960 through the last available issue of December 20, 1965. The Student Voice chronicles the chief concerns of both SNCC and the civil rights movement during the first half of the 1960s.

The only gap in this run of The Student Voice occurs between Vol. 2, No. 4-5 (April-May 1961) and Vol. 3, No. 1 (April 1962), although an edition may not have been published during that period. The early issues of The Student Voice in 1960 are mimeographed from typescripts, while the vast majority of the issues from 1961 through 1965 are printed. With Vol. 6, No. 3 (June 6, 1965), the name of the newsletter changed to The Voice.
